1 Introduction

1.1 General

The Netherlands Fellowship Programmes (NFP) are demand-oriented fellowship programmes initiated and fully funded by the Netherlands Ministry of Foreign Affairs from the budget for development cooperation. The ministry has contracted the Netherlands Organization for International Cooperation in Higher Education (Nuffic) to administer this programme.

The overall aim of the NFP is to help alleviate qualitative and quantitative shortages of skilled manpower within a wide range of governmental, private and non-governmental organizations. This is by offering fellowships to professionals to improve their capacity to contribute to the development of their employing organizations.

Target group

The NFP target group consists of mid-career professionals who are already in employment and who are nationals of and working in one of the 61 selected NFP countries. The list of 61 NFP countries can be found in annex 4. While fellowships are awarded to individuals, the need for training must occur within the context of the organization for which an applicant works. The training must help the organization to develop its capacity. This means that applicants must be nominated by their employers. In fact, an application without the support of an employer will not be considered.

50% of the available fellowships should be awarded to fellowships for female candidates, and 50% of the available budget should be spent on candidates from sub-Saharan Africa. Apart from this, priority is given to candidates from priority groups and/or from marginalized regions to be defined by the embassies.

NFP sub-programmes:

The NFP offers the following options:

Individual fellowships for:

- short courses;
- master's degree programmes;
- PhD studies.

Group training:

- refresher courses.

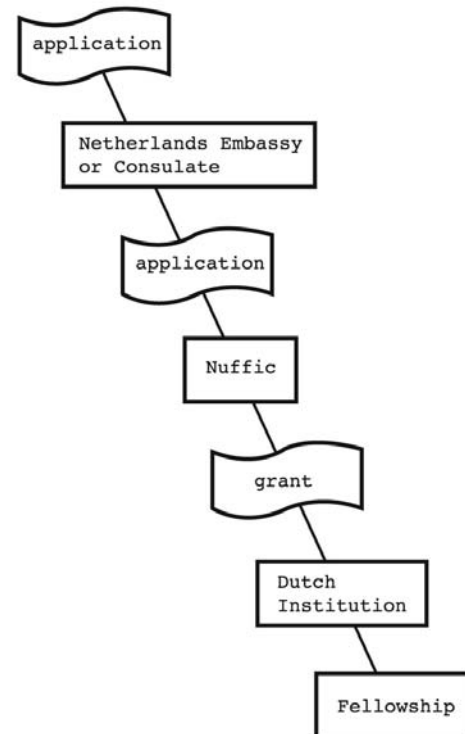

All four NFP sub-programmes are described in this publication. For each of the options, a separate section provides information regarding eligibility, the application and selection procedures, as well as the deadlines.

The fellowship

An NFP fellowship is intended to supplement the salary that the fellowship holder should continue to receive (at least partially) during the study period. The allowance is considered to be a contribution towards the cost of living for one person, whether in the Netherlands or in another country. The fellowship can also cover the costs of tuition fees, and of visas, travel, insurance and thesis research, as specified in the NFP booklet 'Rules and regulations for fellowship holders'. This booklet can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp.

Application procedure

Whilst the individual candidates are selected for a fellowship, the grants are awarded to the Dutch higher education institutes to enable the fellowship holders to pursue the chosen sub-programme.

1.2 The parties involved

Netherlands embassies and consulates

The Netherlands embassies and consulates assess all applications for fellowships for master's degree programmes, PhD studies and short courses. They use standard criteria but are also free to define additional criteria appropriate to the local situation. Embassies and consulates can reject applications or make specific recommendations regarding their further processing.

Nuffic

The NFP is managed and administered by Nuffic (the Netherlands Organization for International Cooperation in Higher Education).¹ Nuffic prepares the documentation for all the NFP sub-programmes, and guides the process by which candidates are selected for fellowships for master's degree programmes, short courses and PhD programmes. Nuffic drafts the lists of programmes and courses for which NFP fellowships can be used. On the basis of the number of qualified candidates who have registered for the various courses and programmes, Nuffic determines the number of fellowships available for each master's degree programme or short course. Nuffic then selects candidates for PhD fellowships and proposals for refresher courses.

Dutch institutions

The Dutch institutions are higher education institutions or other organizations in the Netherlands specialized in transferring knowledge and skills at a post-secondary level. The master's degree programmes and short courses for which NFP fellowships can be used (listed in this brochure) and the PhD study programmes are all offered by officially recognized Dutch institutions that have been assessed for their capacity to receive and teach students or professionals from a variety of backgrounds. All the programmes and courses have been checked in terms of their usefulness for candidates from developing countries. Most programmes and courses are taught in English. The Dutch institutions assess whether applicants are academically qualified to take part in the particular programme, course or training. With respect to master's degree programmes and short courses, the Dutch institutions make the final selection of candidates for the fellowships they may award. They inform the candidates and the embassies of their decisions. Dutch institutions are always the contract partner for refresher courses. The Dutch institutions administer the NFP-fellowships for all four sub programmes. They make logistical arrangements and provide guidance for fellowship holders. For all matters concerning the fellowship, the fellowship holders must contact the Dutch institutions.

1.3 Contact addresses for more information

Up-to-date information can be found on the website www.nuffic.nl.

The Netherlands embassies and consulates can provide more information about country-specific opportunities and regulations. In both Zambia and Uganda the NFP focuses on subjects that are in line with the bilateral programmes and sectors in these countries. This means that the NFP in these countries is open for a limited number of courses and programmes.

Apart from this, in some countries applications have to be submitted to the Netherlands embassies through a local government organization.

For these reasons Nuffic strongly advises candidates to contact the embassy or consulate in their own country before they start the NFP application procedure.

A list of available websites of Netherlands embassies can be found in annex 2.

2 Fellowships for PhD studies

PhD degrees can be pursued at 21 Dutch universities and institutes for international education. A list of these universities and institutes, together with their addresses and websites, can be found at the end of this section. The maximum NFP budget available for a PhD study programme is EUR 85,000. This amount is intended as a contribution towards the costs of living and to cover the costs of visas, travel, insurance, etc. as specified in the NFP booklet 'Rules and regulations for fellowship holders'. This booklet can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp. PhD students are allowed to seek alternative sources of funding. The maximum duration of a PhD fellowship is four years.

2.1 Eligibility

A candidate applying for an NFP fellowship for a PhD degree programme must:

- be a national of, and working in one of the developing countries on the NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4);
- be a mid-career professional with at least three years work experience;
- have been unconditionally admitted to a Dutch institution as a PhD student. This means that the applicant must have met all the academic requirements set by the Dutch university or institute;
- have completed an NFP PhD Study application form and have submitted all the required documentation to the Netherlands embassy or consulate;
- not have received an NFP fellowship or any other fellowship in the three years prior to the start of the proposed PhD;
- offer proof that the PhD will be pursued according to a 'sandwich' or 'picnic' model, which means that a large portion of the PhD research will take place in the candidate's home country;
- be nominated by his or her employer, who pledges to continue paying the candidate's salary and guarantees the candidate will be able to return to an equivalent position after the termination of the fellowship period. Partial payment of salary can sometimes be allowed as an exception to the rule. It is up to the Netherlands embassy to decide if an agreement between the employer and the candidate about partial continuation of payment of salary is acceptable. It should be realized, however, that the NFP allowances are not sufficient to support family members, either in the home country or in the Netherlands;
- not be employed by a large industrial, commercial, international or multinational organization, which can be assumed to have sufficient resources of their own to finance staff training;
- offer evidence that he or she is sufficiently skilled in speaking and writing in the language of communication during the PhD which may be English, French or Spanish. If this is English, candidates who have received their tertiary education in any language other than English must provide evidence in the form of a score in an internationally recognized test, such as IELTS (a score of at least 6.0) or TOEFL (a score of at least 550 points on the paper based test or 213 points on the computer-based test or 79 on the internet-based test). An exception to this rule is made for candidates who have received their tertiary education in English, and for candidates who have previously attended a course or programme at a Dutch educational institution in this language, but no longer than two years ago;
- be available full-time to pursue the PhD without interruption, and be physically and mentally able to take part in the entire programme;

- declare that they will return to their home country immediately after the period of study and research in the Netherlands has ended;
- comply with country-specific rules and criteria set by the Netherlands embassy (for more information please contact the Netherlands Embassy or consulate in your home country).

2.2 The application and selection procedure

The application and selection procedure consists of the following steps:

Application for admission at a Dutch institution

- 1) Candidates must first apply for academic admission to one of the eligible Dutch institutions mentioned under 2.4. Admission as a PhD student is granted on an individual basis. Senior academic staff or a specific PhD committee decides whether or not an applicant will be accepted. Usually the assessment is based on the research proposal submitted by the applicant.

A candidate can apply for a PhD fellowship only after a research proposal has been agreed between the candidate and the Dutch institution.

Application for a fellowship

- 2) After receiving their letter of admission, candidates can apply for an NFP fellowship by presenting a completed NFP PhD Study application form to the Netherlands embassy or consulate in the candidate's own country, accompanied by the necessary documentation. The application form can either be filled out digitally or it can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp. The form can also be obtained from the Netherlands embassy or consulate. For more information please visit the website at www.nuffic.nl/nfp for the latest information.

Candidates should NOT send their fellowship application forms directly to Nuffic or to the Dutch institution, but should forward them to the Netherlands embassy or consulate in their own country.

- 3) The embassy or consulate assesses the application against the criteria for eligibility listed above. Special attention is given to:
 - whether the application stems from a multi-year agreement concluded with selected organizations;
 - the relevance of the proposed research for the candidate's organization and country;
 - proof that the candidate's employer and the Dutch institution support the application.
- 4) The embassy or consulate forwards an application that meets all of the criteria for eligibility to Nuffic, together with its own recommendations.
- 5) Nuffic selects the candidates who will receive PhD fellowships based on the relevance of the proposed research for the candidate's employing organization and home country. Nuffic gives priority to applications which:
 - propose that the research project be co-supervised by an institution in a developing country;
 - have a proven link with other activities that are financed by the NFP or other Dutch government-funded activities;
 - are submitted by female candidates;

- are submitted by candidates from sub-Saharan Africa;
 - stem from multi-year agreements concluded with selected organizations.
- 6) Nuffic informs the candidates that are not eligible or not selected, as well as the Netherlands embassy and the Dutch institution of its decision. The Dutch Institution informs all selected candidates about the outcome through the Netherlands embassy in their home country.
- 7) Nuffic awards the grant to cover the fellowship to the Dutch institution.
- 8) The Dutch institutions administer the fellowships. They pay each fellowship holder a monthly allowance for the duration of the PhD or a maximum of 4 years; they make logistical arrangements, and give guidance to the fellowship holders.

2.3 Deadline for applications

Two deadlines have been introduced for submitting PhD fellowship applications. The applications for PhD research projects starting in 2010 must reach the Netherlands embassy in Uganda before 1 March 2009, in all other NFP countries before 1 June or before 1 October 2009. Applications for PhD research projects starting in 2011 must reach the Netherlands embassy in Uganda before 4 March 2010, in all other NFP countries before 1 June or before 1 October 2010.

3 Refresher courses

The NFP provides funds for refresher courses for NFP alumni. The aim of refresher courses is to increase the impact and prolong the effect of earlier NFP-funded training. The maximum budget available for one refresher course is EUR 70,000. This amount is intended to cover the course costs, including insurance, travel costs of teaching staff and participants, salaries of teaching staff, and to contribute to the living costs of both the trainers and participants, as specified in a course budget and in the NFP booklet 'Rules and regulations for fellowship holders'. This booklet can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp. The duration of a refresher course is normally two weeks. There may be up to 20 participants and it should take place in an NFP country. Participants from that country or from neighbouring NFP countries may attend. The refresher course may be conducted by either the Dutch organization that provided the original training course or by a different Dutch institution qualified in the field of expertise concerned. Applications for refresher courses can be submitted to Nuffic either by organizations in developing countries, by NFP alumni or by the Dutch organization that will provide the course.

Organizations in developing countries applying for refresher courses must:

- be situated in one of the countries on the NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4);
- not be a large industrial, commercial, international or multinational organization, which can be assumed to have sufficient resources of its own to finance staff training.

Participants in refresher courses must:

- be a mid-career professional with at least three years work experience;
- be NFP alumni, having completed any NFP-funded training or education course at least two years prior to the planned starting date of the refresher course;
- be employed in an area to which the course will make a relevant contribution;
- have a clear-cut, functional relationship with a relevant organization and be in a position to introduce the newly acquired skills and knowledge into that organization;
- be a national of, and working in one of the developing countries on the NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4);
- be available for the entire period of the course and be physically and mentally able to take part in the entire course.

To a limited extent colleagues of NFP alumni can join NFP alumni and attend the course. These colleagues should be direct colleagues who work in the same organization or organizational unit of the NFP alumnus. Also, one or two staff members of the partner institute in the NFP country concerned are allowed to attend the refresher course. All NFP alumni may participate in a refresher course as long as they originate from one of the countries on the current NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4).

3.1 Location

A refresher course should be conducted in the country or region of the organization or individuals who will benefit from the course. This should be one of the 61 countries on the NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4).

3.2 The application and selection procedure

Applications for refresher courses should be submitted directly to Nuffic.

The format to be used for writing a proposal for a refresher course can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp, and is also available from the Netherlands embassies and consulates. Nuffic will select the refresher courses to be delivered in 2010 by assessing the requests against the following supplementary criteria:

- project technical criteria;
- the proposed course should be in the same field of study as the original training funded by the NFP.

In the selection process, preference will be given to proposals for refresher courses which:

- have been forwarded by Netherlands Alumni Associations in one of the NFP countries;
- will be jointly implemented by a Dutch institution and an institution or organization in the country or region concerned;
- guarantee that at least half of the participants will be female;
- will take place in sub-Saharan Africa;
- stem from multi-year agreements made with selected organizations.

With these priorities in mind, Nuffic will rank the refresher courses to be supported, and award grants to the Dutch institutions accordingly.

3.3 Deadline for applications

Proposals for refresher courses to be conducted in 2010 should be submitted to Nuffic before 1 November 2009.

4 Fellowships for short courses

Educational institutions in the Netherlands offer international short courses, providing professional training at post-secondary level in several fields of study. The courses lead to a Dutch certificate or a diploma and their duration varies from two weeks to 12 months. An NFP fellowship, which is granted for the duration of the course, is intended to contribute towards the costs of living, to cover the costs of tuition fees, and visas, travel, insurance, etc. as specified in the NFP booklet 'Rules and regulations for fellowship holders'. This booklet can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp. NFP fellowships can be obtained for a selected number of courses. The list of eligible short courses can be found at the end of this section. It should be noted that this list is a provisional list, based on a survey conducted among all potential Dutch institutions in 2009. Nuffic's website should be consulted for the latest information, because information may be altered well into 2010.

After a successful pilot with e-learning, these programmes and courses have also been added to the NFP Course List. These courses can be found in paragraph 4.6 and are indicated with the term "e-learning". Given that e-learning courses are different than the regular courses special NFP conditions apply to these courses. At the time of the publication of this brochure these special NFP conditions are not known yet. Please consult the Nuffic website for the latest information.

4.1 Eligibility

A candidate applying for an NFP fellowship for a short course must:

- be a national of, and working in one of the developing countries on the NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4);
- be a mid-career professional with at least three years work experience;
- not have received an NFP fellowship or any other fellowship in the three years prior to the start of the proposed short course.
- have been unconditionally admitted by a Dutch institution to one of the short courses on the course list. This means that the applicant must have met all the requirements set by the Dutch institution;
- have completed an NFP short course application form and have submitted all the required documentation to the Netherlands embassy or consulate;
- be nominated by his or her employer, who pledges to continue paying the candidate's salary and guarantees the candidate will be able to return to the same or an equivalent position at the end of the fellowship period. Partial payment of salary can sometimes be allowed as an exception to the rule. It is up to the Netherlands embassy to decide if an agreement between the employer and the candidate about partial continuation of payment of salary is acceptable. It should be noted, however, that NFP allowances are not sufficient to support family members, either in the home country or in the Netherlands;
- not be employed by a large industrial, commercial, international or multinational organization, which can be assumed to have sufficient resources of its own to finance staff training;
- offer evidence of proficiency in speaking and writing the language of instruction. If this is English, candidates who have received their tertiary education in any language other than English must provide evidence in the form of a score in an internationally recognized test, such as IELTS (a score of at least 6.0) or TOEFL (a score of at least 550 points on the paper based test or 213 points on the computer-based test or 79 on the internet-based test). An exception to this rule is made for candidates who have received their tertiary education in the English language, and for candidates who have previously attended a course or programme with a Dutch educational institution, but no longer than two years ago;

- be available for the entire period of the course and be physically and mentally able to take part in the entire course;
- declare that they will return to their home country immediately after the short course has ended;
- comply with country-specific rules and criteria set by the Netherlands embassy (for more information please contact the Netherlands Embassy or consulate in your home country).

Joint Courses

A number of short courses takes place, partly or in its entirety, in one of the NFP countries. NFP fellowships will be available only for participants originating from the NFP country where (part of) the course takes place, and for participants originating from surrounding countries that are part of the same region as the country where the course takes place.

4.2 The application and selection procedure

The application and selection procedure consist of the following steps:

Application for admission at a Dutch educational institution

- 1) Applicants first apply for admission to the short course of their choice. Applications should always be directed to the Dutch institution that offers the course. The short courses overview provides the academic application deadlines for each short course.
- 2) The Dutch institution assesses the application and decides whether or not the applicant's educational background and other experience meet the specific requirements for the course in question. The Dutch institution then informs all applicants of its decisions. Successful candidates will receive a letter indicating that they have been (provisionally) admitted. Admission must be unconditional in terms of the candidate's education and language proficiency. Admission may be granted provisionally, subject to the candidate finding suitable funding for the course.

Candidates are eligible for a fellowship only if they have been admitted to the course of their choice and meet all the criteria. Candidates can only apply for a fellowship for one course per fellowship application deadline. Being admitted to more than one course with the same fellowship application deadline means that candidates will have to select one course before applying for a fellowship.

Application for a fellowship

- 3) After receiving their letter of admission, candidates can apply for an NFP fellowship by presenting a completed NFP short course application form to the Netherlands embassy or consulate in their own country, accompanied by the necessary documentation. The application should be submitted well before the deadline for applications set by the embassy or consulate (see section 4.3). The application form can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp. The form can also be obtained from the Netherlands embassy or consulate. Some embassies require applications to be submitted in duplicate. In some countries applications have to be submitted to the embassies through local governmental organizations.

Candidates are therefore advised to check any local regulations with the Netherlands embassy in their country.

4) The embassy or consulate assesses each application against the criteria listed above. Special attention is given to:

- whether the application was submitted before the deadline;
- whether the application stems from multi-year agreements made with selected organizations;
- whether the candidate has presented a letter of admission to the short course in question;
- whether the information accompanying the application is complete and correct, and whether the required documentation (such as passport, diplomas and language test) is in order;
- whether the course is on the list of short courses starting in 2010;
- whether the course has added value for the sustainable capacity development of the employing organization and the development of the NFP country;
- whether the candidate fulfils any other specific requirements set by the embassy, consulate or country in question.

5) The embassies and consulates forward all fellowship applications that meet all the criteria to Nuffic.

6) Nuffic decides how many fellowships will be available for each course. The allocation of fellowships over the various courses is based on the number of eligible fellowship applicants for each course.

7) The Dutch institutions select the candidates who will receive fellowships. The Dutch institution informs all candidates directly of their decisions, and applies to Nuffic for a grant.

8) Nuffic awards the grant for the Dutch institution to cover the fellowship holders' costs, including the tuition fees.

9) The Dutch institutions pay each fellowship holder a monthly allowance for the duration of short course; they also administer the fellowships, make logistical arrangements, and give guidance to the fellowship holders.

4.3 Deadlines for application

Academic application deadlines

The deadlines for admission to short courses vary and can change throughout the year. You should contact the Dutch institution directly for further information. It may occur that the Dutch institution's deadline for applying for admission to a course is later than the NFP deadline for fellowship applications. Nevertheless, fellowship applications cannot be taken into consideration without a letter of admission to a short course. On the short courses overview, each entry includes the application deadlines for academic admission.

Fellowship application deadlines

There are four fellowship application deadlines for short courses (see also annex 3). A reference to the fellowship application deadline set by the Netherlands embassies and consulates can be found as categories on the short courses overview. These specific deadlines are listed for each country in section 4.5 'Fellowship application deadlines of Netherlands embassies and consulates for short courses starting in 2010'. (See also annex 3).

A letter of admission should be in the candidate's possession well before the embassy's deadline for submitting fellowship applications. Therefore, candidates are strongly advised to start the application procedure for admission as early as possible.

Selection of the candidates who will be awarded NFP fellowships for short courses takes place approximately one and a half months after the deadline. The Dutch institution makes a provisional selection. After approval of the selection by Nuffic, the Dutch institution will inform all candidates of its decisions.

5 Fellowships for master's degree programmes

The Netherlands' higher education sector offers a large number of international master's degree programmes. They cover almost every field of study, allowing candidates to receive a postgraduate education and to earn a Dutch Master of Arts degree, a Master of Science degree, or a Professional Master's degree. A Master of Arts or a Master of Science degree is an academic degree, usually awarded by traditional universities on completion of a postgraduate research-oriented course of one to two years in duration. A Professional Master's degree is awarded by different types of institutes of higher education and focuses on more professionally-oriented teaching programmes. Professional Master's degrees are usually of shorter duration than a research-oriented Master's degree programme. The duration of the programmes varies between 9 and 24 months.

An NFP fellowship, which is granted for the duration of the programme, is intended to provide a contribution towards the costs of living, to cover the costs of tuition fees, and the cost of visas, travel, insurance, thesis research, etc. as specified in the NFP booklet 'Rules and regulations for fellowship holders'. This booklet can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp.

NFP fellowships can be obtained for a selected number of programmes. The list of eligible master's degree programmes can be found at the end of this section. It should be noted that this list is a provisional list, based on a survey conducted among all potential Dutch institutions in 2009. Nuffic's website should be consulted for the latest information, because information may be altered well into 2010.

After a successful pilot with e-learning, these programmes and courses have also been added to the NFP Course List. These programmes can be found in paragraph 5.6 and are indicated with the term "e-learning". Given that e-learning programmes are different than the regular programmes special conditions apply to these programmes. At the time of the publication of this brochure these special NFP conditions are not known yet. Please consult the Nuffic website for the latest information.

5.1 Eligibility

A candidate applying for an NFP fellowship for a master's degree programme must:

- be a national of, and working in one of the developing countries on the NFP country list valid at the time of application (see annex 4);
- be a mid-career professional with at least three years work experience;
- not have received an NFP fellowship or any other fellowship in the three years prior to the start of the proposed master's degree;
- have been unconditionally admitted by a Dutch institution to one of the master's degree programmes on the course list. This means that the applicant must have met all the requirements set by the Dutch institution;
- have completed an NFP Master's Degree Programme application form and have submitted all the required documentation to the Netherlands embassy or consulate;
- be nominated by his or her employer, who pledges to continue paying the candidate's salary and guarantees the candidate will be able to return to an equivalent position at the end of the fellowship period. Partial payment of salary can sometimes be allowed as an exception to the rule. It is up to the Netherlands embassy to decide if an agreement between the employer and the candidate about partial continuation of payment of salary is acceptable. It should be noted, however, that the NFP allowances are not sufficient to support family members, either in the home country or in the Netherlands;

- not be employed by a large industrial, commercial, international or multinational organization, which can be assumed to have sufficient resources of its own to finance staff training;
- offer evidence of proficiency in speaking and writing the language of instruction. If this is English, candidates who have received their tertiary education in any language other than English must provide evidence in the form of a score in an internationally recognized test, such as IELTS (a score of at least 6.0) or TOEFL (a score of at least 550 points on the paper based test or 213 points on the computer-based test or 79 on the internet-based test). An exception to this rule is made for candidates who have received their tertiary education in the English language, and for candidates who have previously attended a course or programme with a Dutch educational institution, but no longer than two years ago;
- be available for the entire period of the programme and be physically and mentally able to take part in the entire programme;
- declare that they will return to their home country immediately after the study programme has ended;
- comply with country-specific rules and criteria set by the Netherlands embassy (for more information please contact the Netherlands Embassy or consulate in your home country).

Joint or Double Degree Programmes

A number of master's degree programmes take place, either in its entirety or in part, in one of the NFP countries, for example as a "joint programme" or as a "double degree programme". In these cases, the Dutch institution and the partner institution in an NFP country deliver the programme together. NFP fellowships will be available only for participants originating from the NFP country where the course (or part of the course) takes place and for participants originating from surrounding countries that are part of the same region as the country where the course takes place.

5.2 The application and selection procedure

The application and selection procedure consist of the following steps:

Application for admission at a Dutch educational institution:

- 1) Applicants first apply for admission to the master's degree programme of their choice. Applications should always be directed to the Dutch institution that offers the programme. The deadlines for these applications vary. The master's degree programmes overview provides the academic application deadlines for each master's degree programme.
- 2) The Dutch institution assesses the application and decides whether or not the applicant's educational background and other experience meet the specific requirements for the programme in question. The Dutch institution then informs all applicants of its decisions. Successful candidates will receive a letter indicating that they have been (provisionally) admitted. Admission must be unconditional in terms of the candidate's education and language proficiency. Admission may be granted provisionally, subject to the candidate finding suitable funding for the programme.

Candidates are eligible for a fellowship only if they have been admitted to their chosen master's degree programme and meet all the criteria. Candidates can only apply for a fellowship for one programme per fellowship application deadline. Being admitted to more than one programme with the same fellowship application deadline means that candidates will have to select one programme before applying for a fellowship.

Application for a fellowship

3) After receiving their letter of admission, candidates can apply for an NFP fellowship by presenting a completed NFP master's degree programme application form to the Netherlands embassy or consulate in their own country, accompanied by the necessary documentation. The application should be submitted well before the deadline for applications set by the embassy or consulate (see section 5.3). The application form can be downloaded from www.nuffic.nl/nfp. The form can also be obtained from the Netherlands embassy or consulate. Some embassies require applications to be submitted in duplicate. In other countries applications have to be submitted to the embassies through local governmental organizations. Candidates are therefore advised to check any local regulations with the Netherlands embassy in their country. Candidates should NOT send their fellowship application forms directly to Nuffic or to the Dutch institution, but should forward them to the Netherlands embassy or consulate in their own country.

4) The embassy or consulate assesses each application against the criteria listed above. Special attention is given to:

- whether the application was submitted before the deadline;
- whether the application stems from multi-year agreements made with selected organizations;
- whether the candidate has presented a letter of admission to the programme in question;
- whether the information accompanying the application is complete and correct, and whether the required documentation (such as passport, diplomas and language test) is in order;
- whether the programme is on the list of master's degree programmes starting in 2010;
- whether the course has added value for the sustainable capacity development of the employing organization and the development of the NFP country;
- whether the candidate fulfils any other specific requirements set by the embassy, consulate or country in question.

5) The embassies and consulates forward the fellowship applications that meet all of the criteria to Nuffic.

6) Nuffic decides how many fellowships will be available for each programme. The allocation of fellowships between the various programmes is based on the number of eligible applicants for each programme.

7) The Dutch institution then selects the candidates who will receive fellowships. The Dutch institution informs all candidates of its decisions, and applies to Nuffic for a grant.

8) Nuffic awards the grant for the Dutch institution to cover the fellowship holders' expenses, including the tuition fees.

9) The Dutch institutions pay each fellowship holder a monthly allowance for the duration of the master's degree programme; they also administer the fellowships, make logistical arrangements, and give guidance to the fellowship holders.

5.3 Deadlines for application

Academic application deadlines

The deadlines for admission to master's degree programmes vary and can change throughout the year. You should contact the Dutch institution directly for further information. It may occur that the Dutch institution's deadline for applying for admission to a programme is later than the NFP deadline for fellowship applications. Nevertheless, fellowship applications cannot be taken into consideration without a letter of admission to a master's degree programme.

Fellowship application deadlines

There are two fellowship application deadlines for master's degree programmes; one for programmes starting in the first quarter of 2010 and one for programmes starting in the third quarter of 2010. (See also annex 3). The specific embassy deadlines for NFP applications are listed for each country in section 5.5 'Fellowship application deadlines of Netherlands embassies and consulates for master's degree programmes starting in 2010'

A letter of admission should be in the candidate's possession well before the embassy's deadline for submitting fellowship applications. Therefore, candidates are strongly advised to start the application procedure for admission as early as possible.

There is a good reason why NFP deadlines are scheduled so far in advance. Candidates need time to prepare for a long stay abroad. It takes at least three months to obtain a visa, for example, and other logistical arrangements also take time.

 Educational requirements: BSc in biology.
 Other requirements: Grade Point Average of at least 70%; good skills in mathematics and/or statistics.

■ MSc in Biotechnology

Leading to: MSc
 Course duration: 2 Years
 Next course begins: 01 January 2010; 01 September 2010
 Academic application deadlines: 01 September 2009; 01 February 2010
 Educational requirements: BSc in biotechnology, life sciences; (bio-) chemistry, biology, chemical engineering, environmental science, molecular science, food science, etc.
 Other requirements: Grade Point Average of at least 70%; good skills in mathematics and/or statistics.

■ MSc in Hydrology and Water Quality

Leading to: MSc
 Course duration: 2 Years
 Next course begins: 01 September 2010
 Academic application deadlines: 01 February 2010
 Educational requirements: Bachelor's degree in earth sciences, environmental sciences, agricultural sciences, civil engineering or related fields.
 Other requirements: Grade Point Average of at least 70%; good skills in mathematics and/or statistics; basic computer skills.

■ MSc in Meteorology and Air Quality

Leading to: MSc
 Course duration: 2 Years
 Next course begins: 01 September 2010
 Academic application deadlines: 01 February 2010
 Educational requirements: Bachelor's degree in earth sciences, chemistry, physics, technical physics or related fields.
 Other requirements: Grade Point Average of at least 70%; good working knowledge of multivariate calculus and statistics; computer skills.

■ MSc in Molecular Life Sciences

Leading to: MSc
 Course duration: 2 Years
 Next course begins: 01 January 2010; 01 September 2010
 Academic application deadlines: 01 September 2009; 01 February 2010
 Educational requirements: Bachelor's degree in natural, molecular or related sciences.

Other requirements: Grade Point Average of at least 70%; good skills in mathematics and/or statistics; basic computer skills.

■ MSc in Plant Biotechnology

Leading to: MSc
 Course duration: 2 Years
 Next course begins: 01 January 2010; 01 September 2010

* The Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands in Abidjan is closed . Originally the Netherlands Embassy in Accra would handle the NFP fellowship applications originating from Ivory Coast. Unfortunately this embassy is not in the position to verify documents from applicants from Ivory Coast. For the time being it is therefore not possible for people from Ivory Coast to apply for the NFP.

 Unfortunately the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands in Pakistan cannot provide all services to the public at this moment. For the Netherlands Fellowships Programme this means that only NFP applications for short courses can be accepted. The Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands can be reached by telephone only.

 The fellowship desk of the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands in Kampala, Uganda will be closed from 10 March to 30 August 2010. In this period the fellowship desk will only deal with selected applicants who were awarded a fellowship.

For some countries applications should be submitted at the Netherlands embassy in a different country:
